

Khatra Adibasi Mahavidyalaya

Khatra, Bankura, West Bengal

Department of Geography

Perspective Plan

Perspective Plan of the Department of Geography

Geography is a comparatively new branch of social science. The different branches of this subject are interrelated with other science and social science subjects. That is why Geography is known as a “Dynamic Science”. The main purpose of the subject is to analyse the nature of relationship between Man and Environment over the earth surface. The department always tries to provide all types of facilities to students for their academic progress and career development. The department always tries to arouse interest among the students regarding the modern field of applied Geography and research related activities. The perspective plan of the department includes:

- 1) Enhance the quality of the education at the undergraduate level.
- 2) Integrate experiential learning opportunities, such as field trips and internships.
- 3) Increase collaboration with other departments and institutions.
- 4) Organize workshops and conferences to disseminate research findings.
- 5) Foster professional growth and development of faculty members.
- 6) Offer training sessions to teachers on new teaching methods and technologies.
- 7) Develop partnerships with local schools and organizations for community projects.
- 8) Upgrade laboratory and field equipment.
- 9) Obtain regular feedback from students and take necessary action accordingly.
- 10) Arrange classes on computer skills consisting of basic and advance level with different kind of soft wares.

This plan serves as a roadmap for the geography department's growth and development over the next five years. Regular assessment and adjustment will be crucial to its success.